The 2018 Asian Conference of Women’s Shelters will take place in Sapporo, Hokkaido, Japan on November 2 before the Japan National Shelter Symposium on November 3-4, 2018.

The Asian Conference of Women’s Shelters will be an international platform for scholars, researchers and shelter practitioners to discuss interdisciplinary research and practices in the fields of establishing and running a shelter in Asia, and collection and analysis of data on domestic violence.

The goal of the conference is to produce a report on shelter needs and review the current domestic violence prevention laws in Asia. The report will be a tool for NGOs in the region to advocate for better shelter services and lobby for law reform.

The conference is organized in partnership with the All Japan Women’s Shelter Network and Hiroshima University. As well as leaders of the Asian shelter movement, Ms. Rosa Logar, former president of Women Against Violence in Europe (WAVE), will be a guest speaker at the event.
The 2018 Asian Conference of Women’s Shelters tackles the important issues of evidence based research on shelter needs and the status of laws to prevent domestic violence and protect survivors in Asia.

Data collection is useful for shelter managers, staff, funders, policy makers, and most importantly, clients. Gathering data helps ensure that programs provide the best services, determines whether programs are on track or where changes are needed, helps test emerging practices, identifies the most valuable and efficient uses of resources, guides effective allocation or reallocation of resources, and makes shelters more accountable to funders and the community.

Together with new developments in data analysis, such as social return on investment (SROI), data collection can be used by shelter organizations to demonstrate the benefits of programs, and help us advocate with funders, policy makers, and society at large.

But for staff who are busy dealing with the day to day tasks of casework and shelter management, collecting data can be an additional chore. We need to develop efficient and effective data collection methods to take the burden off shelter staff.

Who owns and controls the data is also an issue that must be addressed. It is important for shelter organizations to protect the interests of their clients and make them stakeholders in the data collection process.

Our colleagues in Japan have been working diligently for many years, organizing surveys on the status of national laws in Asian on prevention of domestic violence and sexual assault, and collecting data on shelter provisions and needs in Asian countries. So this year’s ANWS Conference, generously cohosted by our colleagues from the All Japan Women’s Shelter Network, is an excellent opportunity to review the current status of legal protections and shelter services in our region, and discuss how to work more closely together to share information and use it to make a difference.

Chi Hui-Jung
Chairperson, Global Network of Women’s Shelters
Chairperson, Asian Network of Women’s Shelters
CEO, The Garden of Hope Foundation
Chi Hui-Jung is the Chairperson of the Asia Network of Women’s Shelters (ANWS), the CEO of the Garden of Hope Foundation and a well-known Taiwanese activist, who pioneered advocating for the establishment of laws to prevent gender violence (i.e. Child and Youth Sexual Exploitation Prevention Act, Domestic Violence Prevention Act, Sexual Harassment Prevention Act), initiated plans to build shelters for domestic violence survivors, and founded both the Formosan Daughter Awards and Asian Girl Campaign to encourage girls to challenge gender stereotypes.

When Chi entered the Foundation in 1992, it consisted only of a dozen staff members, one shelter room, and one tiny office area. At the very start, the Garden of Hope’s focus was primarily providing shelter services for sexual assault survivors. However, Chi felt more radical change was needed to improve the overall situation of survivors. That was why she decided to combine policy advocacy and social services into the Foundation’s missions, initiating a series of campaigns to push for the establishment of laws in relation to gender violence.
Aisa is from Yamaguchi Prefecture which is located in the western part of Japan, and moved to Muroran city from Matsue city, Shimane Prefecture in 2011. Since then, she has been working as an associate professor of law, teaching Constitutional Law of Japan and family law. She is also one of the Steering Committee Members of the Women’s Net Masakaane which runs a women’s shelter and women’s trade union. She has been actively involved in a number of feminist and social movements, in particular peace movement against war and support work for Afghan women and refugees. Mrs. Pok Panhavichetr is an Executive Director of the Cambodian Women’s Crisis Center (CWCC). Mrs. Panha holds a master’s degree in Agricultural and Rural Development from the International Institute of Social Studies, located in The Hague, the Netherlands. She has more than 20 years of experience working in the NGO sector in the promotion of gender equality in her capacity as management and directorship positions.

Her diverse knowledge and skills in the area of development expanded her horizon towards serving the Cambodian people particularly women and girls in many ways. Mrs. Panha is considered by her peer NGOs’ leaders as a think tank, full of ideas and guts to share what she has to others.

In 2010, Mrs. Panha has joined CWCC as an Executive Director because of her sensitivity to Women’s human rights. During her 8 years with CWCC, she had exemplary exceeded the expectations of the board in rebuilding trust with CWCC’s donors and stakeholders for mobilizing resources to support the vision of CWCC. Under her leadership CWCC has expanded its program to one more location – Kampong Thom province and also constructed one more shelter located in Siem Reap for providing safe accommodation for woman and girl survivors of Gender Based Violence.

Ms. Panha is a good friend, a responsible mother and wife. Her personality is strong but with soft heart when helping people in need.

Kikuno Yamazaki
Representative Director, Women’s Space-On, Sapporo
Director, All Japan Women’s Shelter Network
Executive director, Hokkaido Shelter Network

Kikuno was born in Tokyo and currently lives in Sapporo city, Hokkaido, Japan.

She is the president of Women’s Space-On, Sapporo and the director of All Japan Women’s Shelters Network. She is also an executive director of Hokkaido Shelter Network.

Women’s Space-On is the women’s human rights organization. It is working for not only DV shelter but also women’s labor union. It was established in 1993 starting from a small apartment room. The DV shelter movement has spread all over Japan from then.

As Hokkaido is the widest prefecture in Japan, a lot of shelters are needed. In Hokkaido, 8 shelters are working for the victims of DV. They are all private Shelters. Most of them are running the women’s labor union because there is serious gender harassment at the working place as well as a family.

Kikuno is one of the survivors of DV. In 1997 she escaped from her husband’s severe violence with her 3 children. That year was the first year the shelter was established. At that time there was no law against DV, so she had to spend the tough time with her children. She always felt insecure. So she started to support the DV victims and attend the movement for making the Law. In 2001 the Prevention of DV Law was enforced. It was made by many survivors.

Kikuno is working for the shelter with her experience as the survivor. She hopes strongly the world without any violence.

Prior to managing the Organization, Zaharah worked as School Counsellor helping youths at risk find purpose in their life before she became a Marriage Counsellor handling cases referred by Syariah Court (Muslim Court that have jurisdiction to regulate certain marriage cases and administer divorce procedure). Zaharah also conduct talks to schools, families and communities in promoting family values and creating awareness on domestic violence.
The Asian Network of Women’s Shelters started in February 2012 at the 2nd World Conference of Women’s Shelters in Washington DC, when over 50 representatives of Asian women’s shelters gathered at a regional round-table meeting to discuss networking, share proven innovations, and learn from each other.

The Network was formally galvanized into a working organization at the 1st Asian Conference of Women’s Shelters in Taipei in September 2012, when 30 representatives from 14 countries in the region met during lunchtime sessions of the conference to draft the vision, values, purpose and objectives of the Asian Network of Women’s Shelters, and select the Network’s first steering committee.

Vision
A just world in which communities and families live free from all forms of violence.

Purpose
Unite, promote and strengthen the women’s shelter movement in Asia to end all forms of gender-based violence.
Global Network of Women’s Shelters (GNWS)

The Global Network of Women’s Shelters (GNWS) was founded in 2009 and is an active and rapidly evolving global network.

Vision
An equal world where women and their children live free from violence.

Purpose
To unite the women’s shelter movement globally to end violence against women and their children.

Goals
- To be a strong and active global network with a recognized international voice.
- To ensure global awareness of violence against women and their children.
- To support and strengthen the women’s shelter movement.
- To promote effective policies and their implementation in order to prevent violence and protect and empower women and their children.
- To promote social change that ends violence and oppression against women and their children.
All Japan Women’s Shelters Network

In 1998, to extend care and assistance to domestic violence survivors (both women and children), we gathered with other non-government shelters to form the network – All Japan Women’s Shelter. In 2003, we officially registered as a non-profit organization.

From the north of Hokkaido to the south of Okinawa, there is a total of more than 100 shelters in Japan, and 67 shelters have joined our network as partners. All Japan Women’s Shelter creates synergy by galvanizing the efforts of local women’s organizations to promote needed changes in the Domestic Violent Prevention Law. Furthermore, the network provides mutual support and sharing of strategies. Our final goal is eliminating all forms violence toward women and children; hence, we focus on domestic violence, and also rape, sexual exploitation, and sexual harassment. We organize the regular conference since 1998, inviting frontline social workers and experts globally to share their policies and implementation strategies/practices in their country. Apart from using a variety of channels to be a voice for the survivors, we also provides a series of comprehensive services, from professional psychological counseling, short-term placement, job training programs to help survivors gain ability to return to independent living in the society.

Among other projects, we offer the 24/7, toll-free helpline for women as a part of Yorisoi Hotline, subsidized by the Health, Welfare and Labor Ministry, since 2012. The word “yorisoi” means being close together. Yorisoi Hotline is the one-stop consultation support project for social inclusion, providing not only telephone consultation but also direct personal support in emergency cases. We take more than 25,000 calls from women every year, but there are more than 20 times the number of missed calls. With the voices of survivors, we facilitate future policy formulation.
The Garden of Hope Foundation (GOH)

The Garden of Hope Foundation is a non-government, non-profit group established in 1988 to help disadvantaged girls and young women, especially girls caught in the sex industry, survivors of sexual abuse and domestic violence, and survivors of human trafficking. Many of our clients have been subjected to more than one form of abuse.

From one halfway house, our services have grown to include shelters and service centers island-wide providing everything from counseling and temporary housing, to employment training, social work and legal aid. Our latest phase of development helps women “go the second mile” with job training, housing aid and emotional support after they leave the shelter.

Vision

A world free of sexual abuse, sexual exploitation and domestic violence.

Goal

Relieve and rehabilitate misfortune children, youths, women and their families.

Promote gender justice, and advocate for social and educational reform.

Empowering girls and young women so that they can realize their full potential and take charge of their lives.

Shelters services

We have 20 shelters in Taiwan and one in the US under the Garden of Hope in New York. In the future we plan to establish a shelter in Taiwan’s Nantou County for victims in more remote areas of the island. Apart from services for survivors of domestic abuse, we also run a shelter for survivors of human trafficking and other migrant women in New Taipei City.
Hokkaido DV Center

In 1957 Hokkaido prefecture established the women’s protection facility based on prostitution prevention law. Since then it has protected women without residence.

When the DV protection law was enforced in 2001, the facility also functions as a DV center. The law requires every prefecter to have at least one DV center.

The DV center is obliged to find early detection, consultation, investigation and protecting victims.

The emergency protection count of the Hokkaido DV center in 2017 was 81. Hokkaido is the largest prefecture in Japan and its population is about 5.3 million. So the public DV center has to outsource the emergency protection to NGO shelters. There are 8 NGO shelters in Hokkaido and the total number of protecting victims was 138. DV center and the NGO are protecting victims with close cooperation.

Casa Rauda means a place of tranquility. Since its inception in 2008, Casa Raudha Women Home (Casa Raudha) remains steadfast to its vision of promoting positive change and new beginnings for mistreated women.

Located inconspicuously within a residential neighbourhood, Casa Raudha is a welcoming and peaceful place that is safe for women and their children who experienced violence and/or those who have lost roof over their heads due to poverty. Casa Raudha is a crisis shelter that embraces cultural diversity, supporting women and children of all nationality, race and religion.

The shelter ensures that its residents’ basic needs are met e.g. food and accommodation. This gives the women especially the mothers less worry and so that she can focus on overcoming the trauma and making plans to move forward while the children continue their school with minimal / zero disruption.

Not just a mere shelter, Casa Raudha is a Home that provides opportunity for women and their children who wants to make a difference to their lives. Working closely with partners, Casa Raudha continues to be the bridge that connects its residents to the community and engaged them positively to bring about change in their life.
The Cambodian Women’s Crisis Center (CWCC) is a local non-government organization that was founded in 1997 and registered with the Ministry of the Interior in 1998 by a group of women who witnessed the suffering women and children as a consequence of the war and the various forms of violence carried out against them.

CWCC has focused its intervention and services on alleviating violence and empowering survivors of domestic violence, rape, sexual abuses and exploitation, trafficking. The work of the CWCC has expanded from a crisis shelter in Phnom Penh to shelters in the provinces of Banteay Meanchey (1999) and Siem Reap (2001) and in Kampong Thom (2012). Social assistance at the early stage also expand to legal protection, community organizing, economic empowerment and advocacy work at national and international levels.

Vision

Women and girls living in peace, security and dignity and enjoying their universal human rights

Goal

Empowerment of vulnerable women and girls through protection, prevention and in order to promote a peaceful, gender-equitable and compassionate society

Services and shelters

CWCC seeks to establish equality between men and women, in turn creating happy and healthy families. Through community awareness raising, prosecution of perpetrators, and successful reintegration, CWCC is helping women help themselves.

CWCC currently has 3 shelters located in Phnom Penh, Banteay Meanchey, and Siem Reap. The shelters provide safe accommodation including food, clothing, psychological counseling, life skill and vocational skill training for woman and girl survivors of domestic violence, sexual abuse and trafficking. On average, every year CWCC houses over 100 clients combined in its three safe shelters.

Center for Studies and Applied Sciences in Gender – Family – Women and Adolescents (CSAGA)

CSAGA – Center for Studies and Applied Sciences in Gender – Family – Women and Adolescents is a local non-profit, non-governmental organization established in 2001. CSAGA is dedicated to promote the human rights of Vietnamese women and children, particularly those are affected by gender-based violence and discrimination by innovative approach. CSAGA’s core capacities include i) outreach program to support gender-based violence victims; ii) psychological intervention for women vulnerable to violence and discrimination; iii) communication activities to create beneficial change for the society; and iv) mobilizing civil society organization and private sector to advocate the legal framework for gender equality and women.

In Vietnam, CSAGA is the first organization addressed domestic violence as a serious social problem that consequently affected women’s life, and the first organization that operated the psychological counseling hotline in the North since 1999. CSAGA is the founding member of the Gender-Based Violence Network of Vietnam – the GBVNet with 15 civil society organizations working on gender and women issues.

CSAGA’s programs are designed based on the human rights approach with detailed theory of change. CSAGA pays special attention to use art in development initiatives as they truly respect the beauty and significance of diversity and difference. The organization’s working areas include gender-based violence, domestic violence, sexual violence and sexual harassment, human trafficking, sex worker, LGBT rights, and children rights. The main target groups of CSAGA are women affected by gender-based violence and discrimination, male perpetrators of gender-based violence and fathers-to-be; lesbian, women bisexual, women transgender; and children at risk of sexual abuse and bullying. CSAGA considers their target groups not only the beneficiary but also the agent for change. Their programs, as a result, besides provide support for these groups, always aim to empower people.
PROJECT SWARAJYA

Genesis of Organisation:

PROJECT SWARAJYA is a non-profit making, non-party, pluralistic and open-ended platform that underlines the need for debate, discussion and dialogue among the concerned key players to tackle the complex human rights issues that the society is confronted with. It came into existence in mid-1988 in the midst of a country-wide movement for making Right to Work a fundamental right in the Constitution of India. Fortunately enough, after a lapse of a decade and half, the Common Minimum Programme of the then Government at the Centre has legislated a National Employment Guarantee Act for the whole country. The Organisation has happily prepared itself to conduct a campaign of earlier type for ensuring the foolproof pro-people orientation to the promised legislation.

Vision:

As the name Swarajya suggests, the Organisation like many other thinkers and reformers of the past and as well of the present, envisages the emergence of an equitable, harmonious and ethical society where each and every individual shall be able to live on the principle, ‘From each according to his capacity, to each according to his need’ in inter-dependence with the rest of the society.

Mission:

To empower the women and other marginalized and weaker sections of the society such as Scheduled Castes, Scheduled tribes, Other Backward classes, minorities, disabled and destitute for their effective participation in the making and implementation of policies and programmes with gender approach, meant for their sustainable development, and also to work simultaneously for strengthening of the existing platforms and institutions like PRIs and SHGs which directly concern their day-to-day life.
Saathi (Meaning Friend), is an apolitical, nongovernmental organization established in 1992 to address contemporary challenges being faced by Nepali women. It is a pioneering organization that addresses Violence against Women and Children, particularly domestic violence, as an area requiring attention and intervention to break the silence that haunts the lives of many Nepali women. It has persistently continued its crusade in creating a safe, violence free society where women can enjoy her rights with dignity and respect. Saathi is also the first organization to open a shelter for the survivors of DV.

Vision:
A just and peaceful society where women and girls can equally enjoy their fundamental rights to lead a violence-free life.

Role of SAATHI:
Saathi started its advocacy campaign for Domestic Violence Legislation in 1999. After 10 years of intense advocacy through networking and forming pressure groups the Bill was finally passed by the Constituent Assembly on 19th April, 2009. Saathi has 4 Women shelters and 5 children shelters.

Drafted the SOP for the shelter operation which got adopted by the Government of Nepal also.

Saathi played a significant role in post-earthquake of 2015, by operating Multi-Purpose Women Shelter in different pockets inside and outside the valley.

Saathi got felicitated by the Ministry of Women in 2017 for its excellence work in providing shelter service to the survivors of domestic and sexual violence.
Star Shelter,
Singapore Council of Women’s Organisations

The Star Shelter is a registered charity with IPC status, and has been in operation since March 1999. It is the only non-religious based crisis centre in Singapore.

Star Shelter is a temporary refuge for women and children survivors of domestic violence. It is a place where they can heal from the trauma of abuse and be empowered to rebuild their lives free from violence.

The shelter takes a holistic approach in helping all residents by providing their basic needs such as safe accommodations, clothing and food and addressing their practical and emotional needs. The shelter works collaboratively with the social workers from Family Service Centres to look into challenges the residents face such as employment, child care arrangement, application of Personal Protection Orders, securing future housing, and seeking probono legal advice. The shelter also provide counselling and various forms of therapy to address the residents’ emotional needs and help them heal from the trauma of abuse.
The Singapore Council of Women’s Organisations (SCWO) is the National Coordinating body of women’s organisations in Singapore. Our 60 Member Organisations represent more than 500,000 women in Singapore.

The Singapore Council of Women’s Organisations seeks to co-ordinate these associations into a national movement and to act on their behalf in matters for which it is authorised by its members. It seeks to promote the ideals of ‘Equal Space, Equal Voice and Equal Worth’ for women in Singapore.

Services

The SCWO offer a range of services mostly for women in need. They are the Star Shelter, the Maintenance Support Central, Legal Clinics, IT Hub, New2U Thrift Shop, Function Rooms, Library and a Café.
The Child and Youth Care Association of Pingtung County (PCTC)

The Child and Youth Care Association of Pingtung County (PCTC) was established in 2003 with the goal of bringing happiness to all children. The Lotus Sutra states: “I have profound reverence for you. I would never dare disparage you. Why? Because you are all practicing the bodhisattva way and are certain to attain Buddhahood.” Children and the youth are the most precious assets in this world; they are valuable treasure to us, and it is our responsibility and obligation as adults to protect, educate, love and respect them. We must ensure our children grow up in a family environment that is filled with happiness, care, and understanding, so their personalities can develop fully and harmoniously.

Our association was founded in 2004, and we administer various social service programs on behalf of the government. In 2006, we began operating an emergency shelter for women and children who are victims of violence and abuse. We also provide long-term shelter services for female victims of violence, helping them to lead an independent life. Our outreach services to female victims of violence, including care for children who witnessed violence, are designed to be one-stop services. We continue to track and counsel children and youth after they leave the shelters. For teenagers unable to return home, we have programs in place to quickly teach them how to live independently.
